The graphic features the word "Connected" in a dark blue, serif font. The letter "C" is significantly larger than the others. A vertical orange line descends from the bottom of this "C", turns 90 degrees to the right, and then turns 90 degrees down again to connect to a second orange circle. This second circle is positioned between the word "Cnnected" and the word "Custmer", which is written in the same dark blue serif font below the first word. The overall effect is a visual pun on the word "Connected".

The diagram features a winding path that starts as a blue line on the left, transitions to yellow, then orange, and finally red. Three red diamond-shaped warning markers with white exclamation marks are placed along the path. Each marker is accompanied by a light yellow callout box containing text. The background is a dark blue gradient with faint, abstract line patterns.
